October, 1973 (24 years ago this month): Dr. Howard Brown discloses his homosexuality to a group of physicians meeting in New Jersey.

Who was Dr. Howard Brown?

Nowadays, it seems like every few months a major public figure discloses her or his homosexuality. While the press attention varies depending on the extent of the person's celebrity - from coverage limited to gay publications to Ellen saying "Yep, I'm gay" on the cover of Time - the idea that some famous people are lesbian or gay is itself unremarkable.

That wasn't true in 1973. When Dr. Howard Brown (at best a minor public figure as the ex-head of New York City's public health department) talked about his homosexuality to a New Jersey symposium on human sexuality in October 1973, the disclosure was front-page news precisely because many people were surprised that a prominent physician could be gay.

When Brown was appointed by Mayor John Lindsay as the chief health officer of New York City in June 1966, the rumors of his homosexuality had already begun. One newspaper described him as "a forty-two-year-old bachelor who lives in Greenwich Village" - code for "homosexual" to anyone paying attention.

Nonetheless, Brown felt that if he acted carefully he could keep his private life from threatening his very public professional life as he worked to consolidate the city's disparate health agencies and supervise a budget nearing a billion dollars annually. His lover, also a physician, moved out and set himself up in an apartment around the corner. He had his phones checked and re-checked for bugs, and he avoided being seen socializing with the other closeted gays in Lindsay's administration.

Still, just six months into his tenure, one of the mayor's aides visited him at home and asked about the truth of a rumor that linked him romantically to another man serving in the Lindsay administration. Brown truthfully denied the link, but he was put on notice that he needed to continue being careful.

A year later, Brown was in the hospital recovering from infectious hepatitis when his brother-in-law, a reporter for the New York Times, visited him and let him know that a Times investigative reporter was working on a story that would expose homosexuals in the Lindsay administration. Afraid of exposure and exhausted from illness, Brown sent a vague letter of resignation to the Mayor the next day.

In the years that followed his resignation, Brown taught medicine at Albert Einstein College and then at New York University beginning in 1970. At the same time, gay liberation had arrived, starting with the Stonewall riots and continuing with the protests and parades organized by the Gay Liberation Front and the Gay Activists Alliance (GAA). Brown felt alienated from these activities by people he saw as mostly young, mostly poor gay men and lesbians. When a student group at NYU proposed gay dances on campus, he opposed the idea despite overwhelming support from his straight colleagues.

But he soon decided to help the gay activists, particularly in the area of fund raising. He approached his wealthy gay friends for contributions to the GAA. Most contributed, but only by writing checks to Brown, who in turn wrote checks to the Alliance. Brown later attributed his ultimate decision to come out publicly to the "magnificent fighters for human rights" of the GAA. Another factor was a heart attack he suffered in June 1972, which made him re-evaluate his fears of public exposure and the legacy he wished to leave.

He agreed to address a symposium on human sexuality in New Jersey in October 1973. Six hundred physicians gathered to hear a series of speeches about sexual behavior. To set a tone of openness, the symposium began with a series of films of explicit sexual acts. Brown later wrote, "As I watched the explicit sex in film after film, I wondered how my speech would be received. A film on female masturbation left me feeling like a middle-aged prude.... We were worried that our earnest speeches might be a letdown after the 'action' of the films."

Nonetheless, Brown's talk garnered tremendous attention. Homosexuals are everywhere, he proclaimed. "I have met far more homosexual physicians than I have homosexual nurses, more homosexual politicians than homosexual hairdressers, more homosexual lawyers than homosexual interior decorators." He went on to criticize the studies that treated homosexuality as a sickness.

The New York Times treated the revelation as front-page news, and Brown was deluged with requests for interviews - as well as thank-you letters from gay men and lesbians around the country who considered him a role model.

In the fall of 1973, Brown was the most prominent American in any field to be openly gay. This prominence led him to be appointed the first-ever chair of the board of a new breakaway group from the GAA which called itself the National Gay Task Force. He headed that organization (which is now the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force) until his death from heart disease in February 1975 at the age of fifty.

My sister and I have been participating in the AIDS Walk on the Milwaukee waterfront for five years now. It originally started out as something to do as an excuse to get outdoors one last time before the cold weather set in. Over the years, the Walk has become a tradition strengthened by the loss of a precious few friends to AIDS, the recognizing of more faces from our daily lives along the walk, as well as my coming out to my sister not only as a gay man, but also as a writer.

This year, however, my boss informed me he had procured a press pass for me, and wanted me to cover the press conference featuring this year's honorary chair, Greg Louganis, as well as Coach Dick Bennett, a Wisconsin sports legend in his own right. From completely different backgrounds, these two men told their stories to the thousands of people at the Summerfest Fairgrounds about how the AIDS epidemic had affected each of them personally, and what they were doing to persevere.

The story of Greg Louganis is so elaborate it covers two novels (the first, Breaking the Surface, is available everywhere; the second may be in print by the time this article is published). He is many things to many people; he is a role model to people regardless of their backgrounds. After Greg revealed to the public his homosexuality and his health status, he chose to stay in the public eye, donating his time and energy to public speaking and education on the subject of AIDS.

When he discussed his experiences touring and speaking, he talked a lot about the attitudes of those he was talking too. "The one thing that is very puzzling and very upsetting to me," Greg stated in his address on the Main Stage, "is with a lot of the new drugs coming out, a lot of people are thinking we're out of the woods. Nothing could be further from truth." He also said he was concerned about young people, hoping they would realize their actions have consequences, and hoping they would love and respect themselves enough to protect themselves and act responsibly in all areas of their lives. "It's hard," Greg said with the look of someone wiser than his years, "It's hard. We've come a long way in HIV education, but we have a lot further to go. And it's going to be never-ending...There is no cure, there is no vaccine--AIDS is still here."

Greg also talked about his own experiences with the HIV medications. As early during 1988, it was decided that he would be treated aggressively with then-new AZT. Even with the side effects of effects of the drugs, he was able to compete and ultimately achieve a place in history in the 1988 Olympics.

Greg Louganis also revealed a more human side to his personality. When asked about the strength he lends to the causes he championed, he replied, "It's funny that you say strength, because I don't always feel strong. I'm just like everyone else. I have my good days and my bad days."

"The thing that I hope they will take back is sharing the experience with their friends," Greg concluded, answering a question on what he hoped young people should take away with them from the AIDS Walk this year. "Also, [to encourage] young people to talk about what is going on with them...whatever it is."

As impressive as the life of Greg Louganis is, the courage of Coach Dick Bennett was not overshadowed. A basketball coach for the past thirty years at various places around the state of Wisconsin, his name is now synonymous with success, a quiet strength from within, and traditional values.

So when the AIDS epidemic affected him personally, Coach Bennett had a decision to make. "There can be a blessing in accepting one's vulnerabilities, as long as there are people who care," he stated to the crowds on Summerfest grounds. "My brother Tom died of AIDS a year ago, and I think Tom recognized the blessing in being vulnerable. His vulnerability allowed many of us to rally to his support. It also allowed me and my father to discard our judgmental attitudes regarding those suffering from AIDS."

He went on to say, "My brother Tom was an MD...lived in Boston. I had a chance to spend an important time with him prior to his death. He just said in his quiet way, 'Just help.'"

To honor his brother's request, Coach Bennett has used his status of a mentor and community leader to rally to the support of those living with AIDS. Along with his emotion-filled speech at the Walk, he has also appeared in public service announcements dealing with AIDS awareness.

What makes Dick Bennett's story so profound is the humility and respect he had for those around him on that day. "I have learned to care," he concluded, "But you folks are much better than I am. You didn't have to learn--you just cared. God bless you."

And God bless you too, Coach Bennett and Greg Louganis.

it's a small part, but it's a start anyway. I will be in several of these episodes eventually.

M: Did you meet any of the regular actors on the show.

A: Yes, I did, but I do not watch this kind of TV and I did not know who they were, so I was with them all the time but I did not know it was the "Big" stars until it was all finished.

M: What are your hopes for the future?

A: My hopes are to do very good here, because I love America and I've met a lot of wonderful people; I'd like to be able to work here in acting, but I also hope to be able to go back to Italy and work since I miss it a lot. And, I would like that everybody all over the world can dance to my voice in all the clubs.

Editors Note: The song is quite fun!

M: If any of the clubs want to get a copy of your CD, who do they contact to get a copy?

A: They can reach me at my email address: belloboy@hotmail.com

M: I want to get back to your acting career for just a bit. If you could do a movie here in the states, who would you like to act with?

A: I would like to make a Steven Spielberg movie, but it is difficult to say who my favorite actors are since I have so many favorites. I love Merrill Streep...another actress I like is Glenn Close and I like Harrison Ford and Keanue Reeves.

M: What other kinds of CD are you going to produce.

A: I like a lot of club music, so I will make more songs in this way. But, I also like Italian music a lot; it is sweet and soft and I like it very much.

M: When will you produce your next CD.

A: As soon as Fabulous is in the stores; as soon as I can after that. I'm in touch with my producer in NYC and we have already listened to some songs that I might record.

M: Will you come to Za's in Green Bay and sing for us?

A: Yes, I would like that.

M: When

A: I don't know, but I will do it.

M: You are from Milan, Italy; tell me something about Milan.

A: Milan is very beautiful as is Como Lake where I spent most of my time, but it is rather boring. Milan is similar to NYC with many great stores so you can make some great shopping.

M: Who are some of your favorite Italian stars?

A: I very much like Sophia Loren and Marchello Mastroianni.

M: Do you go to any of the clubs in LA to socialize?

A: Yes, when I originally was here, every day there was a party; this is a party town, LA. I go with my agent to many clubs too; he knows a lot of people.

M: Do you go to the Gay clubs or straight clubs.

A: I go to both.

M: I've heard that every single person in LA is Gay now; is that correct in your opinion?

A: I think that LA is a place where everybody does whatever they want; so you take it from there.

M: I'd like to visit you sometime out there; when can I visit you?

A: Anytime.... Maybe we can do another interview when you come here to catch up on what's happened in my life since this interview.

M: I'm OK with that as long as Za transcribes the tape. (Editor's Note: "Oh sure give me the shit job!")

A: Here in this business, you have to always push; you can never stop if you want to reach the top. I think that America is such a great country to have this kind of opportunity

M: I've been to Eastern Europe a few times and I've realized from these experiences that there really is a lot of opportunity here, even in the upper midwest. What do you like best about America other than the opportunities?

A: I like the people of course, in the big cities. I have not been to the smaller cities, but I've been to NYC, LA, Miami and these people are very much like Italians - very friendly. And I like the nature of America - the country side, the big forests, desert, parks and all that. I want very much to see the mid west and the Great Lakes. Next time I go to NYC, I will stop in Green Bay to visit you on my way there.

M: what kind of hobbies do you have:

A: I love scuba diving; I'm a rescue diver. I've been in Australia and Maldize and in the Caribbean. I always dive in Sardinia. I also love to ski in the Italian Alps and this year I will go to Aspen, CO to ski. I like working out in the Gym and I like many sports. On the 28th of September there was the AIDS Walk in LA and I took part in this. AIDS is a problem for everybody and I have lost some very close friends to AIDS both in Italy and in the USA.

M: What else do you like to do?

A: I like shopping very much. I go to Armani and Versachi stores in Italy. Here I go to Macy's and Bloomingdales; I love all these big stores.

M: Is there one last thing you would like to say before we end this interview?

A: I would like to say that...I thank you very much and also I thank Mark very much too for featuring me in Quest Magazine. I really want the exposure. I also want to say that I really want to find a producer for my song "Fabulous" so I can get it into the stores. If somebody wants a copy of this CD before it gets in the stores, they can email me and I will send them a copy; cost is $10

Andrea can be reached via email: belloboy@hotmail.com

Aside from his professional career as an entertainer, in his spare time, Andrea is an avid sports enthusiast and in addition to his propensity for scuba diving and down hill skiing he is also into many other sports and civic activities.

LEATHER/FETISH

by Papa Joe

Because of a slip up while transferring copy from E mail to publisher, the date for De' Jon's memorial service was left out. It was Oct. 4 and was a loving service with many friends. Typical of De' Jon, he had made sure all had shared good and happy times with him while still alive.

If you wish to make a contribution in his memory, he designated AidsCare, Inc. 303 W. Barry, Chi, IL 60657 and The Children's Place, 3059 W Augusta, Chi, IL 60622. Aids Care is a home for HIV/AIDS persons where he lived. The Children's Place was De' Jon's favorite beneficiary of his efforts, time and love.

Is it true that there is a new leather bar opening in Milwaukee? Of all the mail I get, this is getting the most attention. Some of the mail seems to refer to the Eagle and still others Woody's.

Here is the poop: Oct. 31, Halloween, Woody's is still on schedule and will open; no major changes being made, just redecorating and shifting furniture. It, as such is not a "leather bar" but will welcome all (Tina Purtrash, excepted). Because both Ray and Steve are well known in the L/L community; you can expect many to be there routinely. The bar will open mid-afternoon, daily.

The following week, according to Paul B, The Milwaukee Eagle (M.E.), formerly the Unicorn Club in the Sydney Hi building (corner of 3rd and Juneau), will open. It will cater to the L/L community as well as open to all. It will also open mid-afternoons. Major work is in progress with Miguel D. as the designer.

The proposed showcasing of Uyvari works, won't happen at the opening as originally planned. The "Cafe Society" is sponsor of same and P.B. said, they will have enough pieces to do a show at maybe the Grain Exchange or the Italian Center. They are, however, still looking for more Uyvari works. If you can lend them some for the show, call Gerald 483-6167

What is The Cafe Society or A Cafe Society? Sorry mon ami, still don't know, but it is Tres Gai.

Regarding the Golden Shaft Club, this is a separate room in the Eagle, with a leather dress code, for card-carrying members and guests. It will be open routinely on Fri. and Sat. nights and for special parties and affairs. If like London, no trainers allowed. Application for the GSC should be available as you read this.

With the stage in the show lounge rebuilt to cope with contest and shows, the Eagle is looking for people to form a leather production company to schedule activities and performances. FMI, contact Paul at 483-6167 Others groups are invited to stop in and check out the facilities. From the Argonauts of Wisconsin:

Not much going on here. Oct. 4, we held our first meeting with The Castaways to formally talk about Joint run 1998. Later that evening, we attended a volunteer recognition party in Milwaukee, honoring the volunteers of Milwaukee PrideFest, 1997. It is always great to be around and enjoy the company of these many diverse people of Wisconsin Gay community.

We had a tour of The Milwaukee Eagle, scheduled to open soon, and attended the joint bar night hosted by the Castaways MC and the Unicorns of Madison at the 1100 Club.

While in Milwaukee, we stopped in to say Hello to our friends, The Firebirds, who were also holding a bar night at the Boot Camp.

Will let you know more about Winterquest scheduled in January in Green Bay, hosted by the Argonauts of Wisconsin, as soon as our plans are firm. -- Russ/AOW ---and---

Our Packer Bear Raffle worked out well. $101 was raised for the first fundraising project to go directly into the Argonauts Charities, Inc. new account. Monies from prior events will be transferred from the old Community Emergency Fund to this new and separate entity of the Club. Our 501(c)3 applications are about to be mailed. -- Thom/AOW

From The Unicorns We wish to thank all who attended the Castaways/Unicorn joint club night. We hope all had a good time and enjoyed the demonstrations. Our thanks to the 1100 Club for use of their facilities.

The Unicorns will begin manning the coat check at Manoeuvres starting the weekend of October 17 and 18 -- but, if the weather remains around 80 degrees, that'll be a slow weekend for coat checking. However, we'll be happy to check any item of apparel a customer may want to shed! Take care, -- Gus/Unicorns

Enjoyed the club night very much. It was good to see the turn out of leathersmen from Madison and Green Bay, as well as the locals. Your demos were well done and if that damn camera hadn't burped again, I would have more pictures. The few shots that turned out were just of the Unicorn men. I was hoping the one with Ma rubbing Roy's head would have been good. Roy really was purring. :-)

Andrea Mieli

by Michael La Forest

When I met Andrea, we were just E-mail pals getting to know each other through cyber and sharing what little we can via the InterNet. We have since graduated to full-fledged friends and the following is an excerpt from a recent interview I had with him for Quest Magazine. When I told ZA (Mark Mariucci), about my friend Andrea, an entertainer from Italy, he graciously agreed to feature this charismatic Italian in an issue of Quest, cover picture and all.

When I called Andy (I get to call him Andy), it was Sunday morning at 10:45 my time, but 8:45 a.m. California time and in spite of partying all night in LA, he was the energetic, vibrant individual I've known him to be since we met.

M: Did you just get up?

A: Yeah (laughs)

M: Did I wake you up?

A: No, No! I've been awake for a little while. I'm ready for all your questions.

M: Let's start out with a little information about your profession. You are obviously an entertainer and I'd like to start out with some questions about that. Tell me a little bit about your background and anything else you'd like to share.

A: OK, when I was 18 in Italy, I was studying Marketing in my university. I was also modeling and making some commercials and that's really when I started in the entertainment business. Then I started working TV - modeling, commercials, theater etc. So, in a few years, I was asked to be in a TV show and I immediately began to study acting in my city - Como. I grew up in Como. But most recently I have been living in Milan which is very close to Como.

M: What kinds of companies did you work for and do commercials for?

A: Oh, it was alot; I did commercials for a bank and this commercial won best commercial for the year in 1992 in all of Italy. I also did a commercial for a laundry company, deodorant company and an oil company to name just a few; actually I did quite a few and I could not remember them all right now.

M: So, what are you doing right now in California?

A: I'm not finished yet with what I did in Italy...

M: Oh, sorry.

A: I started studying in theater and then I began to work in a theater in the city of Como. I got some jobs in TV as well, and after one year, I began to work in on a weekly TV series and it was live on Sundays from 8pm to 12 midnight; I think it was similar to MTV's Real World, where these teenagers all live together in a house and try to get along with each other; we played games and had alot of fun together - there was 10 of us that were on this program each week. I did this for a while and then I moved to NYC for one year and entered

HB Studios for beginning actors and then did an audition for an actors school and passed the exams so I can go there anytime I wish.

M: Are you going to move to NYC then.

A: No, I don't think I will do that; I like LA better for right now because there is work here for me. If I go back to NYC, I'll go to the Actor's school and I can't really work; I would have to study all the time for 3 years. Now, in NYC, I recorded a CD that I produced with a friend of mine. It's a dance club CD called Fabulous. Well, anyway, I'm here in LA now and I'm trying to find a producer for my CD.

M: I assume you hoping to get some exposure for your CD with this interview. Is there anything in particular that you'd like people to know about you?

A: Yes, I would like people to know that my CD can be in the stores very soon. Also the background singer in my CD is a famous singer, Sandy B. And, I write the lyrics to my songs also.

M: Tell us about Sandy B.

A: She is very well known in NYC in the Club scene and has recorded a few songs that are very popular in Europe.

M: Tell me about the day time soap opera that you've been working for.

A: Well it's Days of Our Lives and I've got a small part in it for right now. They were making an episode in Italy and they needed Italians to be in this episode, so I was playing the part of an Italian, which I do very well (laughs). It was alot of fun;

B's Closing Bash

Over six and a half years, B's has made a lot of friends, and, yes, some enemies, but on Sat., Oct.
25, they hope everyone can let bygones be bygones and put all their hard feelings behind them to attend B's closing Show, wish B's a fond farewell, and pave the way for the 'new' Woody's with Steve and Ray to take over at 2nd & Lapham in Milwaukee!

A star studded cast of performers, all of whom have worked hard at many benefits over the years, will take the spotlight for a closing show, 8 pm,
with Miss Bobbi as hostess.

The show will include a salute to Miss M. and the late Mandi McCall.

The Chanticleer Guest House

The Chanticleer is situated on 30 private acres perfect for a romantic Door County Getaway.

*Relax in your own private whirlpool tub

Creating a Safer Community for Sexual Minority Youth - Wausau Conference

A one day workshop will be offered on Thurs., Oct. 23 (8:30-3:30) in the EACH Theatre of the North Central Health Care Facility in Wausau.

The workshop is targeting youth-serving professionals to learn about and discuss the needs of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender youth.

Keynote speakers are Denise Jess and Don Kautz, R.N., Ph.D.

Ms. Jess is an educational consultant who specializes in community-building, conflict resolution, diversity issues, multi-cultural education and media literacy. Dr.
Kautz is a nursing instructor for the Vertibo College Returning R.N. Program and has a strong teaching and research background in human sexuality issues.

The workshop will also include a panel presentation of individuals from Central Wisconsin who will share their experiences as gay adolescents.

This training is sponsored by the Central Wisconsin AIDS Network, New Beginnings Counseling Center, PFLAG, UW-Marathon Campus, Wausau Family Practice and the Wisconsin AIDS
Fund of the Milwaukee Foundation.

Registration fee is $20. To register / FMI, call Peggy Kurth (715) 848-9060.

UFMCC's Troy Perry Invited to White House Conference on Hate Crimes

Los Angeles---The Rev. Troy D. Perry, founder of the Universal Fellowship of Metropolitan Community Churches, world's largest gay and lesbian spirituality organization, has received an invitation to participate in the upcoming White House Conference on Hate Crimes on Nov. 10.

The conference was announced in June by President Clinton. The conference will explore both federal options for addressing hate crimes as well as community-based remedies.

Writing President Clinton, Perry notes,
"UFMCC members and congregations have suffered a two-fold victimization by hate crimes -- crimes against our worship facilities because of our faith and crimes against our predominantly gay and lesbian members because of their sexual orientation.

Perry will represent the more than 42,000 members of UFMCC congregations at the conference.
